Diver Medical | Participant Questionnaire

Recreational scuba diving and freediving requires good physical and mental health. There are a few medical conditions which can be hazardous while diving, listed below. Those who have, or are predisposed to, any of these conditions, should be evaluated by a physician. This Diver Medical Participant Questionnaire provides a basis to determine if you should seek out that evaluation. If you have any concerns about your diving fitness not represented on this form, consult with your physician before diving. If you are feeling ill, avoid diving. If you think you may have a contagious disease, protect yourself and others by not participating in dive training and/or dive activities. References to "diving" on this form encompass both recreational scuba diving and freediving. This form is principally designed as an initial medical screen for new divers, but is also appropriate for divers taking continuing education. For your safety, and that of others who may dive with you, answer all questions honestly.

Directions

Complete this questionnaire as a prerequisite to a recreational scuba diving or freediving course.

Note to women: If you are pregnant, or attempting to become pregnant, do not dive.

The precious coral reefs of Hawaii are facing many serious threats from human actions. Even divers, snorkelers and other recreational users can harm coral reef ecosystems if they behave carelessly and do not show respect for marine life. Hundreds of thousands of people visit Hawaiian reefs every year so small individual infractions can add up to have a significant effect.

Because we care about our coral reefs and want to do everything possible to reduce human impacts, we ask that you commit to not participate in potentially destructive behavior. We are not attempting to limit your experience; in fact, following these rules of responsible marine recreation will help you to better understand and appreciate coral reefs while you help to preserve this unique ecosystem for future generations.

If you want to learn more about coral reef ecosystems and the thousands of creatures that depend on them, ask your Guide or Instructor

I, _____, commit to minimize my impact to the sensitive coral ecosystem by following these rules of responsible marine recreation below.

I promise to:

- Always listen to my Guide and/or Instructor and follow her or his advice. Following safety guidelines can save my life and help to protect the reef.
- Never touch, step on, or kick coral reefs or live rock. Corals are living animals that eat, grow and reproduce and can be damaged by contact. They are also fully protected by State law.
- Never throw food or rubbish into the water or feed fish. Human food and bought fish food can sicken fish and other marine life and disrupt the natural interactions between reef organisms that keep the ecosystem healthy.
- Never chase, touch, or try to move or manipulate marine-life; this can stress and harm the animals. If they want to approach you, it must be their choice.

I understand that if I disregard or knowingly violate these rules of responsible marine recreation, I could be excluded from further diving activities without right to refund and my behavior may be reported to other dive centers.
